Feedback Cadence and Tenets Worksheet

Make feedback a regular part of how the team works, and write down the rules everyone follows.

How to use it. Agree this with the team, not for the team. Put the tenets where everyone can see them.

1. The cadence

MOMENT	WHAT IT IS FOR	WHO GIVES TO WHOM	HOW OFTEN	FORMAT
One-to-one
After a milestone or review
Between peers
From partners (product, engineering)
Formal review

2. Our feedback tenets

Pick the rules that fit your team. Four to six is enough.

- [ ] We acknowledge the effort before anything else, always
- [ ] We give evidence and a standard, never “I think” or “I feel”
- [ ] We give feedback within two days of the work
- [ ] We give hard feedback in private and appreciation in public
- [ ] Feedback goes in every direction, including to the manager
- [ ] We ask before we advise
- [ ] We write down what we agreed and look at it again

Our own tenets (write your own)

3. Roll it out

STEP	WHO	BY WHEN

Content in this document is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International license (creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/).

4. How we will know it is working

Signals we will watch

For example: fewer surprises at reviews, people asking for feedback, feedback arriving sooner

> Review the tenets with the team after a quarter. Keep what people use and drop what they do not.

Content in this document is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International license (creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/).